GENERAL DIRECTORATE FOR CULTURAL ASSETS AND MUSEUMS

MALATYA MUSEUM

FROM PAST TO PRESENT, FROM PRESENT TO FUTURE

Malatya has always been an important place between Mesopotamia, where the oldest and the most advanced civilizations emerged in ancient times, and Central Anatolia. Malatya's geopolitical importance occupies a special place in terms of its location providing natural passages for prehistoric and historical caravan roads. Besides this geopolitical location, the contribution of water, which is an important factor in the development of civilizations, cannot be ignored. Malatya, where the Euphrates River, Tohma Creek and many other large and small streams pass through, has maintained its importance in Anatolia since 8000 BCE until today. In this respect, the artifacts in the Malatya Archaeological Museum shed light on the cultural history of the region.
